

The Security Intelligence Platform for Private Equity Leaders

Portfolio-wide security visibility, so every portco is protected and every investment is informed.

As a private equity leader, your portfolio's cyber risk is growing, but your visibility isn't.

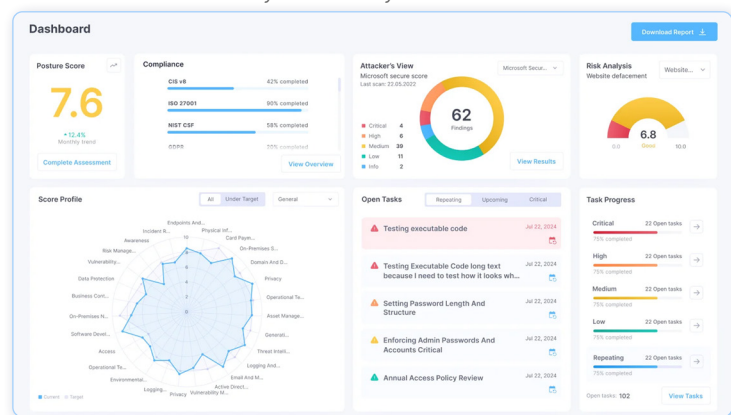

Portfolio companies represent real financial exposure: ransomware incidents that disrupt operations, compliance gaps that complicate exits, and regulatory findings that create fund-level liability. Without a consistent way to assess, monitor, and improve security posture across every portco, you're managing risk you can't fully see.

Key challenges include:

- No unified view of cyber risk across the full portfolio
- Inconsistent security maturity and controls portco-to-portco
- Compliance gaps that surface during audits, exits, or LP due diligence
- Cyber incidents at one portco creating reputational and financial risk for the fund
- Scaling security governance without proportionally growing internal headcount

Cynomi gives PE firms and their security partners a single platform to assess, track, and drive security improvement across every portfolio company, with the consistency of a dedicated CISO at each portco, and the portfolio-level intelligence your leadership team actually needs.
